FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF KANSAS CITY ANNOUNCES OFFICER APPOINTMENT

KANSAS CITY, MO. – Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City President and Chief Executive Officer Esther George recently announced the following officer appointment:

Jeff Kisling was appointed to assistant vice president and deputy business leader for the Treasury Financial Information Repository (FIR). In this role, he will lead project managers and business analysts supporting FIR and the U.S. Treasury’s data transparency initiatives.

Previously, Kisling served as a manager in the Access Management and Provisioning (AMP) Department. He joined the Bank in 2016 and was instrumental in maturing the operation to include sustainable processes and training to support high quality service delivery across the Federal Reserve System.

Prior to joining the Bank, Kisling held executive leadership roles in the consumer products industry, including leading global manufacturing, supply chain, customer and consumer services, and logistics teams.

Kisling holds a B.S. in management from the University of Nebraska, and a M.B.A. from the University of Missouri--Kansas City.

As the regional headquarters of the nation’s central bank, the Kansas City Fed and its branch offices in Denver, Oklahoma City and Omaha serve the seven states of the Tenth District: Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Wyoming, northern New Mexico and western Missouri.
