FOLLOWING SEVERE DISRUPTION IN 2020
NEBRASKA’S ECONOMY HAS REGAINED MUCH THAT WAS LOST.

After cratering early in the pandemic, consumer spending has also rebounded.

Unemployment spiked early in the pandemic but is now historically low.

Exports have more than recovered from the depths of the crisis.

Prospects in agriculture have brightened.

Personal income is up almost $3,000 per capita.

WHILE NEBRASKA IS POSITIONED TO GROW, THERE ARE SOME POTENTIAL HEADWINDS.
As 2021 comes to a close, segments of Nebraska’s economy still face challenges and some risks remain. Supply chain bottlenecks have disrupted business and household purchases. Economic disparities have persisted for low-income families. Many small businesses have not reopened. Businesses are struggling to fill job openings. Prices of many goods and services have increased. For related charts and additional information on Nebraska’s economy, visit www.KansasCityFed.org/Omaha.