

Matt Hanauer

Risk Specialist in the Surveillance and Risk Analysis Department at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. Matt joined the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in 2010 and served as a safety and soundness examiner for several years before transferring to the Surveillance and Risk Analysis Department, where he focuses on banking risks, regulatory changes, and emerging issues in banking and finance. Matt holds a M.S. degree in Finance from the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado.

Justin Noon

Senior Examiner in the Examinations and Inspections Department at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. Justin joined the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in 2011 and served as a field examiner for eight years. In 2019, Justin became a full-time Central Point of Contact and currently works in this capacity with a portfolio of twelve institutions. Justin is a Certified Public Accountant and holds a B.S. and a Master's degree in Accounting from Iowa State University.

Amber Conley

Vice President in the Supervision and Risk Management Division at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City and is located in the Denver Branch. Amber joined the Reserve Bank in 2002 and spent several years in community bank supervision as a field examiner and central point of contact for a portfolio of State Member Banks. Since 2011, Amber has served in multiple leadership roles within the Division, and currently has responsibility for the regional banking and specialty area (IT, BSA, Trust) supervision functions and the department's operations and resource management team. Amber holds a B.S. degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in finance from Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, and is a Certified Fraud Examiner.

Ashle Baxter

Manager in the Surveillance and Risk Analysis Department (SRA) at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. Ashle leads the Fintech Team within SRA and is a member of the Federal Reserve System's Crypto Task Force. Ashle joined the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in 2021 after 11 years at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, where he examined large complex and foreign banking organizations, specializing in capital planning, stress testing, and enterprise risk management. Prior to working for the San Francisco Fed, Ashle conducted research on economic and trade policy in the Asia Pacific region for a law firm and a think tank in Washington, D.C. Ashle holds a B.A. degree in International Relations from Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. He received M.A. degrees in International Economic Policy from American University, Washington, D.C., and in International Affairs from Ritsumeikan University, Kyoto, Japan. Ashle earned the Financial Risk Manager Certification in 2012.