

Fed Chair Powell interviewed on “Today”

March 25, 2020

Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell was interviewed March 26 on NBC’s “Today” show about the Fed’s response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In the interview, Powell said the Fed has been focused on supporting the economy and ensuring credit remains available, and that the central bank will be prepared to ensure a rebound “is as vigorous as possible.”

To view the interview, visit the Today show’s website. For more information about the Federal Reserve’s actions, visit the Board of Governors’ COVID-19 resources page.
