

Consumer Credit Report New Mexico

2nd QUARTER 2011

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF KANSAS CITY

Summary

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City's quarterly Consumer Credit Report provides a snapshot of the economic health of New Mexico and its citizens.

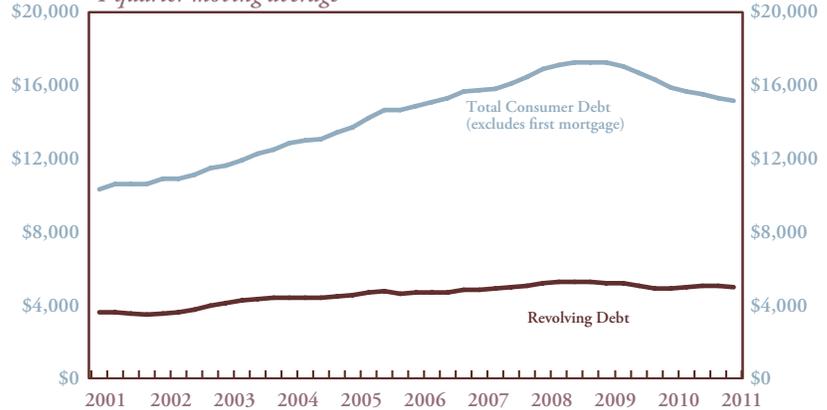

Overall consumer debt in New Mexico declined slightly in the second quarter of 2011, consistent with national trends. Mortgage delinquencies were below the national average but were higher than the average for the Tenth District, which includes Colorado, Kansas, western Missouri, Nebraska, northern New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming.

The average debt per consumer in New Mexico was about $15,000 in the second quarter, down significantly from 2009 but still higher than in 2001. Revolving debt, at $5,000, was largely flat. Nationally, the figures were $17,000 and $7,700, respectively. 1.3 percent of bank cards were delinquent, compared to 1.8 percent nationally. Almost 17 percent of student loans were delinquent (12.3 percent for U.S.), while 3.4 percent of auto loans were past due, equal to the U.S. rate. About 71 of every 10,000 households filed for bankruptcy.

5.1 percent of mortgages in New Mexico were seriously delinquent, which is defined as 90 or more days past due or in foreclosure, compared with 6.9 percent nationally and 4 percent across the Tenth District.
