

Glennis McClure, Program Manager Nebraska Enterprise Fund (NEF)

Glennis McClure is the Program Manager for the Nebraska Enterprise Fund (NEF). NEF is a Certified Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) that provides loan capital to small businesses and programs.

Prior to NEF, Glennis served as the Senior Community Affairs Advisor with the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Omaha Branch. She has previously served as a business specialist and co-director of the REAP program, taught agri-business at Southeast Community College and earlier in her career as a farm business consultant with the Nebraska Farm Business Association. Both her bachelor's and master's degrees are from UNL. Glennis currently serves as the Chair of Gage County's Tourism Advisory Committee, secretary on the new NGage (Gage Area Growth Enterprise) Board for her county, secretary of the Nebraska Entrepreneurship Task Force and is an accredited business planning advisor. She has taken numerous professional training courses in community finance, business retention and transition, and has presented at state and national conferences on business finance and microenterprise /small business development.

Glennis resides south of Beatrice on their family farm with her husband Ed. They have 3 grown children with their youngest still in college.