FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF KANSAS CITY ANNOUNCES OFFICER PROMOTIONS

The following promotions were recently announced by Thomas M. Hoenig, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City:

Kevin Craig has been promoted to vice president in the Bank's Information Technology Division, where he will continue to oversee key aspects of the Federal Reserve System's Server Management Transition project. He joined the Bank in 1993 and was named assistant vice president in 2005. During his career at the Bank, he has been involved in modernizing the Check 21 processing platform and developing technical plans for the server management transition. He holds a bachelor's degree in accounting and finance from Park University and an MBA in technology management from the University of Phoenix.

Brian Faros has been promoted to assistant vice president in the Bank's Treasury Services Department, where he will have broader responsibilities for application delivery services. Before joining the Bank in 2009, he served as director of information systems for U.S. Central Federal Credit Union. He holds a bachelor's degree in electrical and computer engineering from the University of Missouri.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City and its branches in Denver, Oklahoma City and Omaha serve the Tenth Federal Reserve District: Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Wyoming, northern New Mexico and the western third of Missouri.
