KANSAS CITY FED TO ADD JOBS AT OMAHA BRANCH

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City will grow its workforce in its Omaha Branch to support its financial services work on behalf of the U.S. Treasury Department. The multi-year plan will include physical improvements to the current building and grounds. When complete, around 90 new jobs will be located at the Omaha Branch, including management, customer service, accounting, and information technology positions.

As the central bank of the United States, the Federal Reserve carries out fiscal agent responsibilities for the government by partnering with the U.S. Treasury to support programs in the payments, debt management and information management business areas.

About the Omaha Branch

Led by Branch Executive and Economist Nathan Kauffman, the Omaha Branch serves as Nebraska's connection to the nation's central bank. Today, the Branch has approximately 50 employees working to provide research and analysis on the state's economy and the agriculture industry, support community economic development, advance economic and financial literacy, and promote a safe, stable and competitive banking system through the supervision and regulation of financial institutions. The Omaha Branch will commemorate 100 years of service to the region in September 2017.

About the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City and its branches in Denver, Oklahoma City and Omaha serve the seven states of the Tenth Federal Reserve District: Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Wyoming, northern New Mexico and western Missouri. As a regional headquarters of the nation's central bank, the Kansas City Fed contributes to setting national monetary policy, supervises financial institutions, and provides payment and financial services to depository institutions and the U.S. Treasury.
